

Masterbox Bank Die-Cast Metal Replica

Description

The Masterbox Bank is a die-cast, metal replica of the original Gamewell Fire Alarm. Recognized not only as an American icon but the world's first Fire Alarm, the Masterbox is the foundation of the Gamewell 150-year tradition. The Gamewell Masterbox is still very much in production today, and remains on guard in cities and municipalities throughout the world.

The Masterbox Bank is a recreation of the Gamewell design from 1928, which featured an aluminum alloy shell... known then as Herculite... along with the name "Gamewell" on the peak.

Operation

Strictly manually operated. Coins are inserted in the slot on the rear. To retrieve coins, pull handle forward, which exposes operating lever. Downward pressure on the lever will trip coin access.

Construction

Die-cast aluminum, faithful recreation of original Gamewell Masterbox, in red... of course. Pull guard and back are plastic.
